

QUAKER BALL CLUBS TO QUIT BUSINESS

Millionaire Stockholders of National League Team Have Lost About $70,000 and Probably Will Wind Up the Affairs of the Organization.

Loss of Patronage, Due to the Invasion of the American League Baseball Club, Said to Be the Cause for the Heavy Financial Slump.

(Special to The Evening World.) PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6.—The fate of the Philadelphia National Baseball Club and its score of millionaire shareholders hangs in the balance.

After two years' experience, which has cost the club between $50,000 and $70,000, it is probable that at the next meeting of the club the franchise and good-will will be disposed of to the highest bidder or bought in privately by the stockholders.

A meeting of the stockholders of the club was held to-day in this city, but owing to the limited number who attended no definite action was taken. The meeting was attended by President James Potter, Treasurer J. E. R. Roberts, Charles E. Ingersoll, E. H. Hymann, George H. Eraser, A. E. Newbold and E. M. Robinson.

The president's report was read, which showed a heavy financial loss this season. After it was accepted an informal discussion was held as to the future of the club. It is understood that the continued run of hard luck which has pursued the club since the present management has been in control has resulted in a general feeling in favor of disposing of the organization.

President Potter and Treasurer Roberts have made arrangements to have the local branch of the firm of Marshall, Sander & Co., New York brokers, which will shortly be opened at the Bellevue-Stratford.

Will Finish the Season.

After the meeting President Potter said: "There is nothing new in the situation of the club. We shall finish the season and all debts will be paid, but after that it will be for the stockholders to determine whether they wish to continue or not. Owing to the poor attendance this afternoon we were unable to secure the sentiment of the stockholders. I shall continue in charge of the club until some action, if any, is taken, and afterward I shall be at the disposal of the many friends I have interested in the organization."

President Harry Pulliam, of the National League, who was present at the meeting, said:

"I was invited to attend this afternoon's meeting of the Philadelphia ball club so as to be in a position to report directly to the National League any action that might have been taken. I am sure the sentiment of the stockholders present nothing definite was decided upon. The club will continue to play the championship series, and after that it lies with those interested whether they continue or not. The present Club purchased the Philadelphia Baseball franchise from Col. John I. Rogers and A. J. Reach. Since that time they have been overtaken by a series of misfortunes. During the first year the club lost about $50,000, in addition to which the latter part of last year at the ball park placed the club in severe financial straits."

New Players Purchased.

"This year several new players have been purchased, but the club did not seem to make any headway, and the balance sheet shows a financial loss of $70,000. While none of those directly interested would say so, it is understood that the money is the presence of the American League team has been a factor in the situation. From the very start the Americans have withdrawn the Nationals by more than two to one, and while the former have made money, the latter have lost it."

MRS. DI PIETRO IS HELD AND NO BAIL ALLOWED

Woman Who Slew Her Brother-in-Law in Defending Herself Must Answer to the Grand Jury for Her Act.

Another step toward freedom for Rosa Di Pietro was taken to-day in Yorkville Police Court when she was held without bail for the Grand Jury. It is extremely likely that the Grand Jury will find her guilty of the murder of her brother-in-law, Michael Rago, and she will be released from custody. Should she be indicted it would be impossible to get a jury that would hold her responsible for her crime; not only does the public opinion of New York hold that she was justified in killing the man, but in addition she has a good deal of self-defense, as it can be shown that the man threatened to kill her.

Mrs. Di Pietro was greatly disappointed at the action of the Court. She expected that she would be set free. Of the twists and turnings of the law she has no knowledge. In her honest, simple way she has convinced herself that she was justified in killing Rago and she cannot conceive why others, sharing this belief, still keep her incarcerated. She writes fourth the little that in Rago. Third-fourth street where the bewildered Di Pietro, the husband, is cooking his own meals and musing things up.

Wanted to Go Home.

"I want to go home," she sobbed, as she was led from the court-room. "I should be home with my husband."

She had slept little during the night, knowing that this was the day set for her examination. At daybreak she was stirring in her cell, arranging a new gown that her husband had bought for her and laying out clean and respicient raiment for her little baby. She was so excited that
